THE TWO PLATFORMS.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Resolved, That we rejoice in the glorious national victory of 1868, which has brought peace, happiness and prosperity to us as a nation.

Resolved, That we wholly approve of the principles and policy of the Administration of General Grant, and we heartily endorse every sentiment contained in his inaugural address, and especially do hereby ratify and approve the late amendment proposed by Congress to the Constitution of the United States, and known as the fifteenth amendment.

Resolved, That we have confidence that the General Administration will wisely and firmly protect the interests and dignity of the nation in respect to our just claims against Great Britain, and that we endorse the action of the Senate in rejecting the Johnson-Clarendon treaty, known as the Alabama claims.

Resolved, That we heartily sympathize with the struggling peoples of all nations in their efforts to attain universal freedom and the invaluable rights of man.

Resolved, That we confidently endorse the Administration of General John W. Geary as wise, economical and honest, and that it deserves, as it has received, the approval of the people of Pennsylvania, and we especially commend his uniform efforts to restrain the evils of special legislation.

Resolved, That in Hon. Henry W. Williams, our candidate for the Supreme Court, we present a learned, pure, and patriotic jurist, who will adorn the high position to which we purpose to elect him.

Resolved, That we reiterate and affirm our adherence to the doctrine of protection, as proclaimed in the ninth resolution of the platform adopted at the State Convention of March 7, 1866.

Resolved, That we endorse the ticket this day nominated, and pledge to it our hearty and cordial support.

Resolved, That the Chairman of this convention is hereby authorized to appoint a chairman of the State Central Committee on the joint recommendation of the candidates this day nominated, and that the State Central Committee shall consist during the coming campaign of the same number of delegates from each county as the last committee, and they shall be appointed by the Senatorial and Representative districts, except Allegheny, which shall have eight members.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

First. That the Federal Government is limited to the grants contained in the Federal Constitution; that the exercise of doubtful constitutional powers is dangerous to the stability of the Government and to the safety of the people; and the Democratic party will never consent that the State of Pennsylvania shall surrender her great right of local self-government.

Second. That the attempted ratification of the proposed fifteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution by the Radical members of the last Legislature, and their refusal to submit the same to a vote of the people, was a deliberate breach of their official duty, and an outrage upon every citizen of the State; and the resolution making such ratification should be promptly repealed, and the amendment submitted to the people, at the polls, for acceptance or rejection.

Third. That the Democratic party of Pennsylvania is opposed to conferring upon the negro the right to vote, and we do emphatically deny that there is any right or power in Congress or elsewhere to impose negro suffrage upon the people of this State in opposition to their will.

Fourth. That reform in the administration of the Federal and State governments in the management of their financial affairs is imperatively demanded.

Fifth. That the movements now being made for the amelioration of the laboring man have our most cordial co-operation.

Sixth. That the legislation of the late Republican Congress outside of the Constitution; the disregard of the majority therein of the will of the people and the sanctity of the ballot-box, in the exclusion from their seats of Representatives clearly elected; the establishment of military government in States in the Union, and the overthrow of all civil government therein, are acts of tyranny and usurpation that tend directly to the destruction of all republican government, and the creation of the worst forms of despotism.

Seventh. That our soldiers and sailors who carried the flag of our country to victory must be gratefully remembered, and all guarantees given in their favor most faithfully carried into execution.

Eighth. Equal rights and protection for naturalized and native-born citizens at home and abroad; the assertion of American nationality, which shall command the respect of foreign Powers, and furnish an example of encouragement to people struggling for national integrity, constitutional liberty, and individual rights.

Ninth. That the present internal revenue and taxing system of the General Government is grossly unjust, and means ought to be at once adopted to cause a modification thereof.

THE JOURNEY OF LIFE.

On the banks of that broad river,
That flows on from day to day,
Oft, in childhood, have I wandered
With my comrades there to play;
Or some pleasant day in summer
We would take our little boat
And we'd sit and sing together
As we down the stream would float.

Back beyond the tall green rushes,
That grew at the river's side,
Half a mile from that blue river
Where we used to sing and ride,
Stood the cottage of my father
Where my early days were spent,
And where round the family altar
We in supplication bent.

But years have passed since childhood
And the scene has changed since then,
For stern death has been among us,
Stole a lamb from out the pen;
Stole a mother from her children,
Robbed a husband of his wife,
Made that little cottage lonely
And took the idol of my life.

Still we struggle on together,
All that's left of that small band.
"Ever onward" is our motto
As we journey hand in hand.
But the journey is not gloomy,
Though a small and helpless band,
For we know we'll meet that loved one
In a bright and better land.

Letter from New York.

NEW YORK, August 7, 1869.

Dear Globe: As we are all supposed to be out of town, dullness should be our portion, but candor compels me to the confession that enough of our common kind remain to give the visitor or resident ample food for interest and amusement. Certainly the weather proves no drawback to remaining in our city; it is positively delightful; our mornings and evenings fill us with a vigor ample to meet the business requirements of each of us Complaints of dullness one hears upon every side, some of it doubtless attributable to the dissatisfied spirit that pervades every business center—to that insatiate longing for more, that fills every human heart. Content should be classed among the mythological, so seldom do you meet it.

Broadway never can be dull. The ever-passing, hurrying throng shows no sign of decrease; the long lines of trucks hurry through that crowded thoroughfare contesting every spare inch of space with the inevitable buss, those drivers are the embodiment of reckless caution. Hour by hour escape all form of accident is to me a daily wonder. Looking anxiously for a space among the tangled mass of horses and vehicles, you launch yourself among them; a run, a warning yell from behind, and the tongue of a buss playfully inserts itself under your very nose; a sudden spring forward to discover some new contestant for the honor of your death; the shrill whistle of the Broadway officer, and in a moment order comes from chaos, and you see approaching one of those stalwart intelligent fellows, like some grand frigate with her convoy of defenceless craft—said craft being a pair of nicely dressed girls, who are gently and safely conducted to that, without his aid, impossible landing—the opposite sidewalk. Instinctively you fall into their wake, and thank fortune woman's powers are omnipotent on Broadway.

I found my dexterity on my coming here caused a panic at every crossing. Such was my artful dodging that my companions in my daily walks on that thoroughfare became timorous as children at the imaginary dangers I was constantly leading them into. Many an indignant remonstrance has been leveled at me when in a fury of caution I've seized upon them and dragged them from to me instant annihilation, my thanks being, "Confound it, I saw that cab; don't drive me into a sudden decline by your misapplied energy." Why, Globe, I've scattered a crowd as would a ten-inch shell, by a look of intense caution and a spring to one side, every man coming in an opposite direction imagining a troop of uncontrolled horse upon them. Many a curse doubtless has fallen upon my devoted head from the sole proprietor of a much loved corn or cherished bunion brought to grief by my feats of activity.

Nothing can be funnier than to see the coming of our country cousin and his first effort as a sight-seeker upon our great thoroughfare. He merges into the crowd and becomes one of them, when in an instant something strikes his fancy; a sudden stop; bang drives a fellow into his rear, round goes his head, a muttered apology from the banger or a muttered curse, as the humor strikes him, and again he moves to suddenly find his hat performing acrobatic feats in the air in company with some other hat; a mutual stop, a return of damaged property, a broad grin from a New York crowd, and our rustic friend wonders "How on airth men kin be so arkard," and on he goes bumping and bumped, until the first cross street offers him a safe harbor to be only too gladly accepted.

This "marching down Broadway" is rare sport. You see the New York girl, "the girl of the period," with her saucy look of "Gentlemen, your admiration is lost upon me; I am up to all that sort of thing, I belong to New York." You read this upon the faces of so many pretty, dashing women here that you feel the day not only of woman's rights but entire supremacy is coming on apace. It is very amusing to any careless spectator—the dash of these girls, and if you feel no other regard for them than so far as they contribute to the enjoyment of yourself and friends on your stroll, pleasant, but should you really care for one of these little witches, then there would be so much to reprove and cry down. Well, as a philosopher, I am coming on most royally; methinks I will adopt a gown, a few works upon the unstable character of man, eschew all worldly enjoyment, and build me a mansion of self-sufficiency upon whose entrance in letters of bronze shall be, "Here lives N. S."

Did the man in the moon behave so badly to your sun as he did to our sun? We put our glass into mourning to view his audacious advances; it was of the most shocking character; a deep shade of grief was upon Old Sol's visage, in fact one half of his dear, cheerful face was lost in gloom, while the smile upon the other was of the most dolorous character. I am sure the threat of that horrid man in the moon was that "he would make him laugh upon the wrong side of his face" and he did. Such were our feelings we could not look upon the sad picture without "pane," and men (I blush) made their "panes" marketable; in fact, every upturned face wore a look of gloomy "broken panes." Ah, me, so many poor people hid their sorrow in the glass. Old, decrepid men, burly manhood, matrons, lovely maidens, children, mere infants, fell victims to the fiend of drink—in every hand was an upturned glass. I shudder while I write. Were I not in the character of your correspondent, (reliable always,) gladly would I draw the veil of silence upon this disgusting picture. The man with a glass eye was no uncommon object upon our streets, and he with a "pain" in his stomach was a mortal to be envied. It's all over now; the gloom has been dispelled. A monster meeting will be held on Monday afternoon at the City Hall to express in a suitable manner our indignation of this base attempt to cast a shadow upon the spotless face of our "sun." It is fully expected the meeting will eclipse any of a similar character for years.

Promising to keep you constantly posted in all matters of interest and sincerely deploring the terrible struggle that will shake the portals of the world, and cause crowned heads to tremble, and knowing the unutterable misery that will become humanity's portion in the event of the success of the barbarians who are now mustering under that man Packer to sacrifice the goddess of Liberty on the altar of repudiation, permit me to aid you by crying with my puny voice that cry that has so often found ready response from the intelligent masses, "Freemen, awake." Desiring that my modesty may prevent your asking me to address your fellow-citizens upon the debasing effects of wealth upon a candidate for Gubernatorial honor, ever believe me your sympathising and earnest friend, N. S.

"SEEING THE ELEPHANT."—A couple of lads in Portage City, Wis., climbed a tree outside the tent to get a "dead-head" view of Forepaugh's circus. As soon as the elephant was through in the ring, the managers brought him out and hitched him to the identical tree from the limbs of which the lads were viewing the circus To "a boy up a tree," this looked a little out of order; but they kept as quiet as death, fearing that they would either lose the closing performance, or be the subjects of the displeasure of the circus man, if he should discover them "dead-heading" it to his show. In due time the performance closed, the crowd dispersed, and horror upon horrors, the keeper of the animals now added to the perils of their situation by hitching two smaller elephants and a camel to the same tree. Our lads now discovered that they were in for a night of it, as all hands had left, excepting only themselves and the animals on guard below. All hope of escape was now cut off. About this time Romeo concluded to investigate matters about him, and with his trunk commenced trimming out the smaller branches.—Our boys commenced climbing also, until they got above his reach; and now the camel took up the investigation, and poking his ugly mug up among the limbs, he drove the boys to the very uppermost branches of the tree, where they were discovered, at daybreak, by their anxious parents, who had been searching for them in vain all night, teetering and tossed about like blackbirds on the top of a rice stalk on a windy day. The boys saw more of these animals than all the rest of the boys in town, and "for nothin'," too; and if they don't remember the time for the balance of their natural days when they "sat up" with Romeo, then we miss our guess. The phrase "seeing the elephant," had to them, a practical application which they will always remember.

SPEAK WELL OF OTHERS.—If the disposition to speak well of others were more universally prevalent, the world would become a comparative paradise. The opposite disposition is the Pandora-box, which, when opened, fills every house with pain and sorrow.—How many enmities and heart-burnings flow from this source! How much happiness is interrupted and destroyed! Envy, jealousy and the malignant spirit of evil, when they find vent by the lips, go forth on their mission like foul fiends, to blast the reputation and peace of others. Every one has his imperfections; and in the conduct of the best there will be occasional faults which might seem to justify animadversion. It is a good rule, however, when there is occasion for fault finding, to do it privately to the erring one.—This may prove salutary. It is a proof of interest in the individual which will generally be taken kindly, if the manner of doing it is not offensive. The common and unchristian rule, on the contrary, is to proclaim the failings of others to all but themselves. This is unchristian, and shows a despicable heart.

Captured by the Indians.

From the Omaha Herald.

About four years since a family named Weigel removed from Ohio to Kansas, and settled on a stream known as Solomon's Fork. The family consisted of John Weigel and wife and three children, two boys and a girl, the former aged respectively ten and twelve years, and the latter three. A homestead of eighty acres was taken up, and in two years was under cultivation. At that time, as our readers will remember from accounts published, the Crow Foot Indians made a raid through that portion of Kansas, leaving death and destruction in their wake. The Weigel farm was attacked, and the entire family except Mrs. Weigel butchered. That day was the last time she was seen until Sunday last, when General Carr made an attack on an Indian village near the Platte Valley station. Two white women were seen by the soldiers in possession of the Indians, struggling as if to make their way to the ranks of General Carr's command. An order was given to "charge" and rescue the women, which was observed with a will by the brave men, but before they could gain possession of the women, a savage sunk his tomahawk into the head of one of them, whose only known name is Susanna, who fell to the earth. Another red devil fired a revolver at Mrs. Weigel, but the shot fortunately struck a rib and glanced off, causing but a slight wound. Before any other murderous demonstrations could be made, a private soldier whose name and company is at present unknown, put spurs to his horse and rushed gallantly to the heart of the Indian band, grasped Mrs. Weigel by the waist, lifted her on to his horse, and galloped away to the wagon train, where care and attention was given the unfortunate woman. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the brave man, and was his name but known, it would be a pleasure to herald it forth to the world. The battle soon afterwards came to a termination by the capture of the entire Indian outfit, with the exception of those who "fell early in the fight." Mrs. Weigel stated to an officer that she had been a prisoner among the Indians since the summer of 1867. For a year she had been the forced mistress of a Crow-Foot chief named "Buffalo Man," who, tired of her after a year, and disposed of her to another chief, named "Tall Tree," the considerations being a couple of ponies. She states that several times after her capture she attempted suicide, but was treated with all the kindness generally bestowed by Indians, which had a tendency to cause her to accept the situation; yet she never could accustom herself to pollution. She has become very coarse of feature, caused by exposure. Her joy at being rescued was very great, but she seems, after all, discontented, and at times tired of life. At the time of her first capture, she was tied hand and foot and forced to pander to the hellish desires of her captor. Mrs. Weigel has relatives in Ohio, who have been notified of her re-capture, and will immediately remove her to her old Ohio home. This is a strange, sad yet true story of life on the Western plains. Many items concerning the hellish outrages of the red-skins are suppressed for decency's sake, but we have given sufficient to convey a definite idea of her severe trials.

☞ There seems to be no doubt that the city of Jerusalem destroyed by Titus remains buried under the foundations of the modern town, and that many most valuable relics may yet be brought to light. The explorations at Jerusalem, under the direction of Lieutenant Warren, are resulting in some highly interesting discoveries.—The city is built upon hills intersected by valleys, but it is in the depths of these latter that the ruins of the ancient capital of the world are to be found buried under debris to the depth of 30, 50, and even 90 feet. The mode of exploring is by sinking shafts through the mass of rubbish to the ruins below. Some fifty shafts have been sunk, and at the bottom of one the foundations of the old walls of the Temple Area have been found, ninety feet below the surface. Mysterious characters, at present, unintelligible, are to be seen on some of the stones. The exploration of the Birket Israil, or Pool of Bethesda, has revealed a vast vaulted reservoir nearly 100 feet in depth. Its extent is still being investigated. In a part of the Haram Area a tank mouth was lately entered, and was found to lead to a large structure 68 feet long by 57 wide, vaulted very much like a church. There is every reason to hope that the full investigation of these ruins will yield the most important discoveries; but every shaft sunk must be lined with wood, and as the wood soon decays at Jerusalem, the work is very costly.

☞ In Colorado the cattle require no care and expense, save that of herding, the whole year around. During the summer months the grass is rich and abundant, and is converted into hay by the mere action of the elements, and remains good during the winter months. The very finest beef and cattle that go into the Denver market are those which have been out grazing the whole year, and have never in their lives seen inside of any shelter.

[From the Hickman (Ky.) Courier.]

Miss Susan Caroline Godsey, the sleeping wonder, died at her mother's home, some eight miles from Hickman, on Wednesday, the 14th inst.

The history of Miss Godsey is well known to the public, a statement of her wonderful condition having been published extensively by the press of the United States. At the time of her death Miss Godsey was about twenty-six years of age, and had been asleep, as described, about fourteen years. The existence of this wonderful case of coma, or preternatural disposition to sleep, has been doubted by many, but the fact is indisputable. Indeed, some twelve months ago Miss Godsey was taken to Nashville and other places for exhibition, but we understand many even of the physicians of Nashville, looked upon the case with suspicion.

The history of the case is, briefly: When about twelve years of age she was taken with a severe chill, and treated accordingly by her physician. As the fever which followed her chill subsided, she fell in a deep sleep, in which condition she has remained ever since, except at intervals. It was her custom at first to awake regularly twice in every twenty-four hours, and singularly, within a few minutes of the same hours each day; but of later years she awoke oftener, so much so that many considered it an indication of her final recovery. She would remain awake five, ten, or perhaps fifteen minutes, and gradually drop off to sleep again. When asleep it was utterly impossible to arouse her. She never complained of any bodily pain, though when asleep she was very nervous at times, and appeared to suffer considerably by the violent twitching and jerking of her muscles and limbs, and her hands clenched tightly as if enduring severe pain; but when awake she did not appear to suffer except from a drowsy, gaping inclination, and persistent effort to cleanse her throat of phlegm. She generally passed into sleep through violent paroxysm, which would last perhaps five minutes, and she would then sleep awhile as calmly and quietly as an infant. Miss Godsey was of medium size, and her limbs and muscles were well proportioned, and developed, and grew considerably after her affliction.

Miss Godsey on the day she died indulged in the little prophesying, which we give as related for what it is worth. She said the sun would be a total eclipse on the 7th of August," this is remarkable, because parties assert that she could have had no knowledge that this was according to calculation, "and that the sun would never shine as bright after that day." That this would indicate the end of the world, which was speedily approaching."

NEW POSTAGE STAMPS.—A new self-cancelling postage stamp has recently been invented. The paper on which the stamp head is printed is first wet in a cheap chemical solution. The stamp is then gummed and perforated as formerly. When purchased, the stamp is moistened as usual and attached to the letter. But when the Post office clerk takes up the letter to sort it from others for different States, on his right hand thumb is a small pot on which is a sponge with a feeder, which is soaked in another chemical solution, kept secret for governmental reasons. As the clerk takes hold of the letter to throw it aside, his thumb comes in contact with the stamp; an instantaneous combination takes place, and a defacement comes out much superior to the present ink. This cancellation can only affect the stamp which is prepared; for if the thumb-sponge wet the envelope, it dries off without any mark. By a similar process revenue stamps are prepared. The stamp presents the same appearance as the present one, having been only soaked in the prepared water previous to printing; then, when dry, a coating of gum is applied over a stencil plate, leaving the words "paid," "cancelled," "U. S." or any of their equivalents. When the stamp is run through the perforator, it also passes through two buffers, where a powdered preparation is rolled in. When wanted for use, by wetting the stamp, as formerly, the saliva acts as an agent, combines the two chemical preparations, and immediately a black bar on the words "paid," "U. S." come out, permanently cancelling the stamp, and doing away with the tedious and annoying practice now enforced, of putting one's initials on the stamp.

THE MULE.—A young and industrious humorist, of the West has written a treatise "on the mule," from which we take the following "pints:"

The mewl is a larger burd than the goose or turkey.

It has two legs to walk with, and two more to kick with, and wears its wings on the side of its head.

It is stubbornly backward in going forward, and in driving him a man needs both forsite and bigdsite.

CURIOSITY.—Mr. Frank Erd, residing near Louisville, Ky., has in his possession a young cat which a few days since, had kittens for the first time. Mr. Erd, not wishing to have any more of the feline species at his house, had the kittens drowned, whereupon the old cat took to the woods and found two young rabbits, which she brought home, and is now sucking them in lieu of her young.

FATE.—"Patrick, d'yo' know the fate of a drunkard?" Fate! don't I stand on the most beautiful pair you ever see?"

☞The coal-miners of western Pennsylvania are invited, by the Democracy, to vote for a man who has made millions of money by speculating in their toil and sweat. Not much Packer for them!

☞Asa Packer bolted Stephen A. Douglas in favor of Breckinridge, the Southern fire eater, who developed into the wickedest among rebels. Will the old Douglas Democrats swallow Packer now?

BLAIR COUNTY.—The Republicans of Blair, by the Crawford County System, have placed in nomination the following ticket: Assembly, Joseph Robison, (old member;) Commissioner, Jacob Walter; Director of the Poor, Jacob H. Stiffler; Auditor, Wm. H. Calvert.

☞The Richmond Whig will have no vaunting of the Virginia election as a "Democratic victory." "If to have carried out in her late election," says the Whig, "a policy in which no single Democratic dogma, principle, or characteristic finds a place, makes her Democratic, then she may be so considered, upon the principle of lucus a non lucendo."

"Ohio has her Rosecrans—Give Pennsylvania her Hancock!"

Rosecrans has declined the Ohio nomination and Hancock declined the Pennsylvania nomination for Governor. What a lesson to those who hate—yes, hate—the soldier. They would nominate men they despise to accomplish their ends. But the good sense of these soldiers forbade their acceptance, and the rotten carcass of a once proud party has been compelled to nominate men of their own ilk to go down in infamy and shame along with the party that hates the government.

The Conventions.

On Tuesday of last week the Union Republican Delegate Convention met in the Court House Hall, and put in nomination a full county ticket. Perhaps there never was as strong a contest or as full a turn out at delegate elections as there was for delegates to this Convention. The Convention was full—every district represented. It was noisy, and bad order continued from the beginning to the end of the Convention. The Democratic Convention on Wednesday was no better. The Union Republican ticket is an avorage good one. The Democratic Convention nominated Harry McAteer of Alexandria, for Assembly. It made no other nominations, and adjourned to meet at the call of the President, Graffus Miller. The Union Republican Ticket will be found at our mast-head where it will remain until elected or defeated on the 2d Tuesday of October next. It shall receive our earnest support.

As far as we have been able to learn, there was no attention given by the Convention to the votes cast for or against the Crawford County System, and we cannot say whether the question was voted upon generally throughout the county. We give the proceedings in an another column as full as it was possible for us to get them.

☞Eighteen hundred Cheyenne Indians draw rations at Camp Supply. This, it is believed, includes all that tribe south of the Arkansas.

K. K. K.

Solemn Conclave of the Unterrified.

The Democratic County Convention assembled in the Hall of the Court House on Wednesday last, and to say that intelligence, wisdom and "loyalty" was everywhere marked throughout the solemn and impressive proceedings, would but feebly express the true character of that "noble band" of persecuted, liberty-loving, self-sacrificing opponents of the war, it has ever been our mortification to witness.

The Convention was called to order by the Chairman of the County Committee, and proceeding to ballot for a Chairman of the Convention, it resulted in the election of a "renegade," who upon being called to the chair delivered his inaugural, which was to the point.

The Chairman—The first thing in order is something else.

Nick—Mr. Chairman what's to be done now?

The member from New Jersey—Mr. Chairman, I offer the following resolution.

Nick—Mr. Chairman what resolution?

Chairman—The Secretary will read the resolution, which he did as follows:

Resolved, That this Convention proceed to nominate a candidate for Assembly, after which we will adjourn, to meet again at the call of the Chairman, it not being deemed advisable to nominate a county ticket at this time.

Nick—Mr. Chairman what does this resolution mean?

Ex-member—Mr. Chairman I want a County ticket nominated, will have a ticket nominated and demand that a ticket be nominated.

Member from New Jersey—Mr. Chairman there is no use in nominating a ticket to be knocked down, for the bloody radicals have things all their own way.

Nick—Mr. Chairman I would like to know ——

Chairman—What action will the Convention take in the matter.

[Here quite an animated debate took place between the Ex-member, who saw that he was being beaten at every stage of the proceedings, and who had now become furiously mad, and the member from New Jersey, who was as calm and serene as a March wind.]

After the confusion had partially subsided, an old gray-haired "one of the faithful" sang out "Let us have peace."

Nick—Mr. Chirman when can I make my speech?

Chairman—The gentleman will be heard at the proper time.

Several amendments and amendments to the amendments to the original resolution were offered and discussed pro and con, whereupon several members took occasion to relieve themselves of an extra amount of "bile." They spoke in glowing terms of the "grand old Democratic party," and with tearful eyes bewailed the misfortunes of the old ship, and denounced the Republicans as liars, bloated-bondholding aristocrats, bone-dried usurers, carpet-baggers, scalawags, and as dishonest, treacherous, sneaking, lying, cowardly, bigoted, puritanical, power-loving, labor-disposing sneak-thieves, as Judas Iscariots, and as damned, extravagant, iniquitous puppets, all of which elicited the most profound and deafening applause. During this tremendous out-burst of enthusiasm, the majestic form of Nick, the "noblest Roman of them all," was seen standing erect upon one of the benches, and after the noise and confusion had partially subsided, the clarion voice of that true type of Democracy, was heard beseeching the attention of the Chairman. Nick at last got the floor.

Nick—Mr. Chairman this is Alexandria borough and not Porter township. I don't know which side I'm on. I don't know what the question is. I am a Democrat, I belong to that noble band which opposed the war, I am opposed to the war yet; I am opposed to the nigger and I am opposed to the Government, but as I said before I don't know which side I am on, and urge this Convention to think over this matter, weigh it well and vote understandingly. It is of the greatest importance that I don't know which side of this question I am on, but I again urge the Convention to consider what is of the utmost importance, and vote understandingly on this question. But what I was going to say Mr. Chairman, I don't exactly know what side of this question I am on, but let me urge the members of this Convention to vote understandingly. But, I am not done yet, Mr. Chairman, I desire to say still further; that I don't know what side I am on, but I do hope that this ballot will not be hastily taken for I would like the members of this Convention to vote understandingly on this question. Mr. Chairman this is all that Alexandria borough has to say. I am done. "Let us have peace."

For at least a quarter of a second after the conclusion of Nick's remarks, the most unbounded enthusiasm prevailed, and shout after shout rung through the hall, and it was with the greatest difficulty that the Chairman could again restore order and quiet and resume the business of the Convention.

After some further discussion the Chairman was about to put the question, when the Ex-member demanded the yeas and nays, and it was "so ordered."

The yeas and nays were called on: Shall we or shall we not nominate a county ticket.

Chairman—The clerks report that they all agree in their talley. The yeas are—, and the nays are —. The yeas appear to have it —, the nays have it, and it is "so ordered."

Nick—Mr. Chairman I don't understand the question. What did we just vote for?

After a little more confusion worse confounded, the Chairman demanded if there was any further business before the Convention. On motion adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman.

[P. S—We deem it essential, to say that Nick "declined the honors of the Convention," and that Nick's speech was the speech of the Convention]

☞A conflict of authority exists between the United States and State legal authorities in New York. Pratt, over whom the conflict is going on, was a rebel major in Texas, and leader of a party of guerillas. He, with thirty-seven of his band, were captured in the fall of 1868, and imprisoned in the jail of Jefferson. On the night of October 4, all the prisoners broke jail, cutting their way through the guards, killing three and wounding several others. On the 5th of this month Pratt was discovered and arrested in New York by a United States Marshal, on a warrant from the U. S. Commissioner, and placed in jail. His counsel made application for the writ of habeas corpus, first to Judge Blatchford, of the U. S. District Court, and next to Judge McCunn, of the Supreme Court of New York city. After an animated discussion by counsel, Judge McCunn, on the 11th of August, discharged the prisoner, on the ground that the warrant, so far as the offence of treason is concerned, plainly accuses him of no such crime, and second, so far as murder is concerned, the U. S. Government has no jurisdiction. The prisoner was ordered to be discharged, but the U. S. Marshal refuses to obey the decree of the State Court. Pratt was taken to Fort Schuylkill.

The latest dispatch is to the effect that a company of U. S. Artillery is on duty in the U. S. District Court room, fully armed and equipped. Marshal Barlow, under an order from President Grant, intends to hold the prisoner, Pratt, in spite of the State Court. Judge McCunn, it is rumored, ordered the Sheriff to call out a posse if necessary to enforce an order discharging Pratt. No open conflict has taken place, and it is thought it will be averted.

Who is Pershing?

The Democratic party present to the State Mr. Cyrus L. Pershing as a candidate for the Supreme Bench. On that party, its press and leaders, rests the responsibility of telling the people who this Mr. Pershing is.

Common rumor says that he is a respectable young man of average talent for a Pennsylvanian who always voted with his party. How the Democratic party voted during the war is not and never will be forgotten. But the people are not satisfied with a juvenile partisan, however smart or however faithfully he may have kept in the ranks.

On behalf of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania we ask the Democratic party for information.

Has Mr. C. L. Pershing ever tried a case before a jury unassisted? Give us the caption, with the number and term.

How many suits has Mr. C. L. Pershing already argued before the court in which he is now ambitious of a seat?

Is Mr. C. L. Pershing known in Cambria as anything more than a justice of the peace lawyer?

What great principle of law has ever been elaborated by Mr. C. L. Pershing's efforts? What leading case has he ever shared the glory of contesting?

Will Mr. C. L. Pershing, if elected, resign his position as local attorney for the Pennsylvania Central Railroad? We ask that little question as the Democracy were greatly troubled last General Grant, if elected, should not resign his commission in the army.

The voters of the State have a right to have these questions answered. For a Supreme Judge it is their duty to vote intelligently.

Let us have light. Until we have an unequivocal answer, there is no choice at all between a lawyer like Williams and a what-is-it like Pershing.—Press.

ANOTHER RAILROAD DISASTER.—The Buffalo Express and Erie Mail met with a terrible accident on Saturday morning last, on the Schuylkill and Susquehanna railroad, about half mile from Dauphin. The engineer, Charles W. Stewart, and the fireman, Jacob Crisman, were killed, and the baggage master and express agent slightly injured. The locomotive, tender, two express and two baggage cars were thrown off the track and wrecked. The accident was caused by a large rock rolling on the track, which had been loosened by the rain. No passengers were hurt.

☞White Pine papers chronicle a "good joke on the grasshoppers," which have come in millions to that barren spot, leaving the wheat fields of California to ripen gloriously.

THE GLOBE—Fifty cents for three months.

The Ohio Democracy and George H. Pendleton.

In Ohio, at least, the Democracy have determined to be true to their inconsistency. The attempt to foist a soldier upon those who aspersed him throughout all the years of the war has been baffled by that soldier's self. He could not forget his self-respect, nor yet the duty he owed to his creditors, by consenting to be made a tool for the basest partisan purposes. How could he look a creditor in the face whilst standing upon a platform of repudiation and expecting the suffrages of those who anxiously awaited the announcement that the public credit has been destroyed? Duty to his creditors forbade it. Now that the game of unfairness, which the Ohio Democrats intended to play, has been exposed, the true instincts of the party crop out. They go back to the only original, the only true sentiment, out-and-out antipathy with everything which made the war a success and which makes our country respected. They have unearthed one of their worst-preserved fossils, and mounted him at the head of their columns, fondly anticipating a repetition of the Cid's story. There can be no doubt that George H. Pendleton is the embodiment of the only real Democratic sentiment extant. There is an appropriateness, then, about his selection as Gubernatorial candidate which the Democracy is seldom guilty of.—He believes firmly in the divinity of that slavery which cursed the land, and whose removal has given the nation such impetus. Liberty with him is a constricted thing or else a lie. Not an impulse arose in a soldier's heart that he did not hate, not a measure was taken to suppress rebellion that he did not oppose and curse. No man is more completely wedded to the dead and uncoffined ideas of the past than he. When the war was closed he drew the dagger of resentment, and, assassin-like, stabbed the nation's honor, by advocating repudiation of its debt. Around him clustered the admiring and sympathizing Democracy. His announcement was received with so much acclaim that the honors of the Presidential chair were deemed the only fitting remuneration. It was with the greatest difficulty that the more astute members of the party succeeded in choking him off. A flank moment slew him; he was cheated in genuine Democratic style. Now, however, he comes to the surface again—a man of honor among them, and worthy of their confidence. Let his record be proclaimed far and wide. Putting off all disguises the Democratic party have openly returned to their principles, never put off, but concealed for policy sake. The Republicans of Ohio have a plain duty before them. The issue in that State is squarely made. They know what to expect if Pendleton is elected. That he never will be, however, is a pleasing contemplation. It is, perhaps, fortunate for the country that the Democracy has been forced to unmask. Their desperate duplicity can serve their purposes no longer. Too often have we seen them come before the public with specious promises on their lips, but with base deception in their hearts. Even now, in Pennsylvania, they are before the people with a tissue of nice words for a platform, not one sentiment of which is heartfelt, except those inserted to keep up their organization. Their only real platform is the record they made during the war. From this they have never departed except by flattering protestation.—Wherever they are now profiting by their deception they are the same old prospective, prejudiced, slave-holding, and liberty-holding men, who, for 40 years, retarted the growth of the nation by chaining it to unchristian practices, and finally led it into war. In Ohio they do not fear to avow it, if the nomination of George H. Pendleton means anything. The consequences of their temerity be upon them.—The Press.

What Five Months Have Done.

Let us enumerate some of the results of the brief five months of President Grant's administration, which may be cited to the public in response to the charge that the public service is neglected.

We were told in October last by the same oracles that now find it so difficult, in speaking of the President, to respect the ordinary proprieties of social life, that there would be a deficiency in our revenues for the fiscal year just closed of one hundred and fifty-four millions of dollars. That is what they regarded as the best prospect the future had to offer us financially nine months ago.

Now, what has this idle, cigar smoking, horse-jockey of a President accomplished during the brief five months that he has had such control of the Government as Congress accorded to him?

By a greator care in the selection of trustworthy agents, and by a vigorous enforcement of the law, the revenues have so rapidly increased that the direct debt of the government has already, since his inauguration, been reduced between forty-three and forty-four millions of dollars. The revenues from whisky and tobacco alone have more than doubled. A reduction of the army from forty regiments to twenty five is to result in a further saving of many millions.

The effects of the new policy of the government toward the Indians cannot now be appreciated, but enough is already known to make a further economy in that direction that must be estimated by millions. Our Federal securities are worth to day at least $250,000,000 more than they were worth the day our President was inaugurated, and are advancing at the rate of ten or fifteen millions a week. There is no doubt of our ability to fund the entire national debt within a year at a rate of interest not exceeding four and a half per cent. We are sure of a surplus at the end of the current fiscal year of from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000, and it is no longer a question that our revenues will justify a large reduction of our taxes.—N. Y. Times.

Packer's War Record.

[From the Lancaster Express.]

The Democratic papers are anxiously endeavoring to show how patriotic their candidate for Governor was during the war of the rebellion; but it seems a remarkable fact that the only proof they have so far been able to forward of his sympathy with the cause of his country, is the fact that at the time of Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania, in June, 1863, when his own property was in danger, Mr. Packer encouraged his neighbors to volunteer to prevent the further advance of the rebel army. That his conduct upon this occasion was proper and commendable we are not going to dispute; but in forming an opinion whether he was mainly actuated by patriotism or by selfish motives we must judge him by the same standard that we apply to everybody else, and by comparing his action upon this particular occasion, when his own property was in direct and immediate danger, with his general course throughout the war, when other portions of the country, distant from his particular home, and the Government itself, were in danger of destruction.

We know of Judge Packer that he was a member of the Democratic National Convention which met at Charleston and adjourned to Baltimore in 1860 to nominate a candidate for President, and that he uniformly acted with the fiercest Southern extremists and advocates of perpetual slavery; that he was one of the seceders who bolted the nomination of Stephen A. Douglas by the majority of the convention, and who met in a bolters' convention and nominated John C. Breckinridge—a proceeding which we imagine some, at least, of the friends of Douglas will not forget upon election day. From his course in that convention—his subserviency in all things to the dictation of the Southern slaveholders and secessionists—we could have no reason to look for any strong objection or resistance from Judge Packer, when, in pursuance of their determination long previously formed to ruin the country when they could no longer rule it, a majority of the Southern States formally seceded from the Government and declared open war against it. And accordingly we hear no protest from him against the treasonable acts of his late associates when they seized the Government forts, navy yards, and custom houses in the South, nor a word of encouragement to those who were volunteering to defend the Government, from the 15th of April, 1861, when President Lincoln's proclamation for seventy-five thousand troops was issued, up to the time the Lehigh Valley Railroad and other property of Judge Packer was placed in danger. While hundreds and thousands of patriotic men and women, with not the hundredth part of the wealth of Judge Packer, were pouring out their money with a lavish hand, according to their means, in contributions for the sick and wounded soldiers, and for the equipment of troops, or were personally volunteering for the service, like Geary and a hundred thousand Pennsylvanians beside; while others were loaning their money in large and small amounts to the Government to provision and pay the soldiers in the field—for all that appears to the contrary the Democratic candidate for Governor, a man of influence among his friends and the possessor of millions, stood entirely indifferent and neutral in the contest which was to decide the fate of the nation—saying nothing, giving nothing, and doing nothing in any shape or form to encourage and support the Government in its doubtful struggle with its traitorous enemies.

Is this the kind of man that the patriotic people of Pennsylvania, who contributed so unsparingly of their best blood and their treasure to sustain their imperilled country in war, are willing to choose for their ruler in time of peace? We do no believe it.

NASBY ON PACKER.—Nasby has been speaking in behalf of Packer. He seems to have taken "Brick" Pomeroy's Democrat as a guide. Here is what he says of his experience:

I felt good ez I struck that sukrid soil. Here, thot I to myself, is a State uv laborers. Here is a State into wich I shel only meet the brawny-armed and horny-handed sons of toil. Here, for wunst, my path is clear.

I opened out at my first meetin furiously agin bonds, agin monopolies, agin bloated bondholders, agin the aristocratic men uv wealth, wich, by accumulatin bonds, hev managed to get into their hands enuff to subsist onto, thus wringin gorjus luxuries out of the sweat of the labrin men, and then rememberin my last Ohio eggsperience, had just commenced to brunch out eulogistic uv the noble men who opposed copperheadism doorin the war, when the most uncouthly yell that ever wuz heard assailed me.

"Who brought you here to abooze our candidate for Governur?" shouted the infooriated mob, and stones and sticks began to fly like hail about me. I stood this till two enthoosiastic admirers of Packer rushed to a grocery handy by, and returned in a minit with a baskit of eggs. Them I never cood stand, and, demoralized and bewildered, I left Pennsylvany.

☞The Good Templar takes a moral view of the Philadelphia fire, which destroyed 21,000 barrels of whiskey: "Twenty-one thousand barrels of whiskey," says that philosophical print, "amounts to over forty millions of drinks—enough for one general 'treat' all round to every inhabitant of North America! But for this fire, said twenty-one thousand barrels would in due time have made twenty-two millions, six hundred and eighty-eight thousand drunks—estimating only one drunk to each quart—and at a fair calculation, five hundred thousand fights and other 'unpleasant' exercises; one hundred and twenty thousand police and court cases; twelve hundred jobs for grave diggers; forty-five thousand commitments to prison; one million dollars worth of patronage for lawyers, magistrates and prison-keepers, and an aggregate profit to the retailers of whiskey of about three millions."

The large and increasing sales of these

We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.; the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our CELEBRATED PERFECTED SPECTACLES by the residents of this locality.
With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

The committee on resolutions reported the following which were adopted:

The Republicans of Huntingdon county, in convention met, do resolve,

First, That we heartily endorse the sentiments of the inaugural address of General Grant, and congratulate the country upon the assurance which his administration has already given, that honesty, economy and rigid accountability will be enforced in every department of the government.

Second, That in General John W. Geary, and Hon. Henry W. Williams, the nominees of the State Republican Convention for the offices of Governor and Supreme Judge, we recognize candidates worthy of the support of every freeman, who desires to preserve the good name of the State, the pure fame of the Judiciary, and the ascendancy of that patriotic party which saved the nation's life in the hour of war, and saved its honor from the shame of repudiation in peace.

Third, That we cordially endorse Hon. John Scott and Hon. D. J. Morrell, our representatives in the National Congress, as men alike true to the party which has chosen them as their representatives, and the best interests of the country at large, believing that fealty to the great Union Republican party of to-day is fidelity to the Nation.

On motion the delegates from each election district were instructed to name to Mr. M. Logan, Chairman, two persons ro act as members of the County Committee.

On motion adjourned.

Our genial, jovial and corpulent friend, Rob Stewart, is in town, and expects to remain with his friends a few weeks. He is in from California, where he has been long enough to become thoroughly acquainted with the customs of that once far-off State, but now brought so near by the U. P. Railroad. Rob cites some interesting details of his western life, particularly of his sojourn among the Mormons, but we have it from his own mouth that he didn't dare to call on any of Brigham Young's daughters, nor they to look at him—such is their aversion to us Gentiles. We hope "Slim Jim" will let our readers hear from him.

Adam Mierly was accused of assault with intent to commit rape. A true bill, but defendant not guilty.

Agricultural Meeting.

The Huntingdon County Agricultural Society met, pursuant to previous notice, in the Court House, on Wednesday evening, 12th inst. President, Graffius Miller, in the chair.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

A communication from the President of the Agricultural College was presented, urging the importance of a full representation of delegates to the annual meeting of the Agricultural College on the 1st of September next.

Capt. B. X. Blair, chairman of the committee to locate a place for holding the coming Fair, made a verbal report to the effect that two or three places were under advisement, but that the committee had not been together to make a formal report. The first ground thought of by the committee was that formerly occupied, below town, owned by Gen. Wilson, which he had agreed to lease to the Society for that purpose for $100, provided a suitable guarantee was given for the protection of his fence. The ground was fitted up, and very convenient, and the committee thought the parties in public business would perhaps contribute the amount to pay for the rent of the ground. The other ground under consideration was that of Mr. McCahan immediately across the bridge at the foot of Montgomery st., which was said to be a good location, but there would be some expense incurred in fitting it up, which would not be required at the other location. The committee also understood that there could be ground obtained in West Huntingdon, but had not had time to consult the owners or examine the ground. The field belonging to Mr. McCahan could be obtained for about $50.

On motion, the report was received, the committee discharged, and the Society proceeded to designate the locality.

On motion, the proposition of Gen. Wilson be accepted and the Fair be held where it was last.

On motion, the list presented by the committee on premiums be re committed to the committee, with authority to appoint awarding committees on the different articles on exhibition, and to meet at the call of the chairman.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. Robb, and after some discussion adopted:

Resolved, That the three representatives from this Society to the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania be elected in the following manner and to serve for the following terms, to wit: That one be elected to serve for the term of three years, one for the term of two years and one for the term of one year, and that one person shall be hereafter elected at the usual annual election to fill the place of the one whose term shall have expired.

The Society then proceeded to nominate delegates and alternates to the meeting of the Agricultural College, in accordance with the resolution, as follows: L. Robb, for three years; J. Simpson Africa, for two years; David Hare, for one year. Alternates—H. McManigall, J. Sewell Stewart, S. Miles Green.

The subject of fixing the time for holding the Fair was then introduced, and after some discussion the 6th, 7th and 8th days of October were agreed on.

A committee of five, to act as committee of arrangements for the exhibition, was appointed, as follows: Jas. Port, H. C. Weaver, L. Robb, J. S. Africa, J. Flenner.

The Society then adjourned.

G. MILLER, President.
R. McDIVITT, J. M. BAILEY, Sec's.

Jack's Spring.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, writing from Mt. Union, tells of a spring situated near the summit of Jack's Mountain, three miles west of Mt. Union. He says: "It has long been known and celebrated by the citizens of this place for the extreme coldness and the remarkable volume of water it sends forth. On the mountain-sides in the vicinity of this spring are many smaller ones of the most excellent water, but "Jack's" outrivals all of them many degrees in coldness. Place your hand in the water and you instantly experience a sensation so benumbing that you will not, even on a hot July day, care to allow it remain longer than a few seconds, as the operation is uncomfortably cool. The force of the stream is about one hundred gallons per minute.

A short distance below the spring the water sinks and continues to run under ground a distance of a mile and a half, when it again emerges from its subterranean passage, about a hundred feet above the bed of the Juniata river. But ere it is permitted to mingle its sparkling waters with the blue current below, the noble spring-stream is made to do an ignoble work—that of manufacturing, with its pure and crystal waters, whisky! Those who imbibe this luxury (?) praise the excellence of the article here manufactured; but give to me heaven's own beverage, the pure water from the spring, ere it is polluted by man."

☞ It is estimated that seven tenths of all adult ailments proceed from a diseased and torpid liver. The biliary secretions of the liver overflowing into the stomach, poison the entire system, and exhibit the above symptoms. After a long research, we are able to present the most complete and reliable cure for these horrid nightmare of diseases the world has ever produced. Within one year over six hundred and forty thousand persons have taken Plantation Bitters, and not an instance of complaint has come to our knowledge. It is the most effectual tonic and agreeable stimulant, suited to all conditions of life. Inquire of your Druggist in regard to it.

Robbery.

The book store of Mr. J. C. Blair, on Railroad street, was entered on Thursday night, last week, and robbed of gold pens, and some other articles, which were found the next morning in a corn field, across the river. The burglar effected an entrance through a back window.

ANOTHER.—The dwelling-house of Mrs. Rachel Gwin, on Hill street, was entered on Saturday night last, thro' a back window. The house is unoccupied and the robber was undisturbed, but fortunately got nothing for his trouble.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—There are men from a distance who come to our town to see what prospects there are to start an enterprise. We know what the result has been in the past. They have been discouraged and left. Those men saw the advantages of our town better than we did ourselves, and they would have improved them but our people would not permit them. We are blind to our own interests, and seek to live, as we have done for nearly a hundred years, without giving scarcely any attention to the establishment of works of art. Strangers have wondered at our seeming indifference, and they have repeatedly chided us. We have the name of having a beautiful town, and surrounded with much beautiful scenery, but we are also selfish enough to enjoy it all alone. It appears that we do not want anything started that has the smell of manufactures, or that will bring the laborer into our midst. We are too aristocratic for our own good, and we would sooner revel under the shade of our own vine and fig tree than see anybody else do so. Not that we are not somewhat sociably inclined toward each other, but, rather, not enough inclined to see others come into our midst to plant their vines and fig trees. Ours, in fact, is more of a professional than a mechanical town. We have more stores and offices than shops and factories, while if it was vice versa, our town would long since have been one of the first manufacturing towns in the State, and would have had a population equal to many of our cities. The prejudice against factories, if any there is, should be removed, and it can be removed the most effectually by erecting more of them. Reasoning with the opponents of home industry never effects good results; but the proof of the usefulness of works of industry is seen in their successful management. The more manufactories we have, the less caviling we will hear, and the more benefit our town will receive from being blessed with establishments that are a credit to it and the men who have established them.

IMPROVEMENT.

Money Matters.

The following remarks of a western journal are pertinent to this locality. Merchants are puttings things in order for the fall trade, and are shaping matters for a good business. Crops being good, it is confidently expected that collections will improve. If payments are not more prompt than heretofore, debtors will find it difficult to offer a satisfactory excuse. It won't do to say that prices are too low and farmers refuse to sell. People who are not in debt have a right to sell their produce or not; but those who are in debt to the storekeeper have only one course to pursue, consistent with honor, and that is to sell and pay up old accounts. If this should be done the business of the country, and farmers would profit by it quite as much as anybody else, because it would cause activity in the produce markets and stimulate prices. If general business drags, the produce markets will drag also, and this will cause a continued scarcity of money, which must affect prices. There is a great abundance of money in the country, but it is stagnant, and hence it is practically scarce. If people who are in debt and have produce on hand, will sell the latter to an extent sufficient to pay the former, currency will be put into circulation, money will become plenty and business will be active. Let no one say because he owes only $50 or $100, that delay in payment can make no difference.—If the small debts are promptly paid, there will be no difficulty about the large ones. Until people who owe small amounts pay up there can be no revival in business. This is an important fact that should not be lost sight of. Take for example a country merchant who supplies his neighbors with groceries, dry goods, and hardware.—He owes three houses in the city $1000. He has twenty customers who owe him, each $50. If these should pay up he would be able to discharge his city indebtedness. The city merchants have each fifty such customers. The payment of the $50 bills would therefore wipe out debts to the amount of $50,000. This would bring into use money that is now lying idle, and would enable banks to loan more freely to produce merchants, thus facilitating the movement of the crops, and imparting confidence all round.

Spruce Creek Railroad.

A grand rally of railroad men is called to meet at Millheim, in Centre county, on Friday, the 27th of August, at 1 o'clock, P. M. In May last a meeting was held at the same place, at which a Committee was appointed to confer with the Penna. or other Railroad companies on the subject of aid in the construction of a road from Lewisburg, through Centre county, to Spruce Creek, in this county. The object of the meeting on the 27th is to take into consideration the aid promised by the Penna. Co., and, if that is deemed satisfactory, to take steps for an immediate and active canvass for subscriptions. All persons interested in the construction of this railroad should not fail to attend the meeting.

☞ The Evansville and Cairo packet Cumberland exploded her boilers near Shawneetown, Illinois, on 14th. Eighteen or twenty lives were lost.—The boat's books were blown overboard, and the names of the missing cannot be ascertained. The boat is a total loss. A portion of her cargo, consisting principally of wheat and corn, will be saved. The boat was insured for $6,000.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

In what a wondrous age we live,
Not many seem to know;
But few the mighty change perceive,
Since fifty years ago:
Our ancestors did never dream,
When things moved very slow,
Of what we're doing now by steam—
Say fifty years ago.
Gentlemen's and Boys Boots and Shoes then
Were made with little show.
But LEWIS RICHTER makes the "styles"
At prices very low. my13-6m

An Honest New York View of the Pennsylvania Platform.

The New York Citizen, an able Democratic paper, in a long article on "Democratic Principles and Practices," has the following remarks applicable to the Democracy that met in convention lately at Harrisburg:

"We hold that the Democracy, to succeed, must discard old issues, and bring itself fairly up to the times. It is useless to quarrel over questions that the force of circumstances has settled, we cannot re-enslave the negro if we would; our Southern brethren placed a whip in the hands of our enemies to drive us naked through the world; the rebel States of their own motion went out of the Union, and they had to be brought back by "military despotism," or they never would have come back at all. It was to the military tyrannies of Sherman, the violences of Sheridan, the impositions of Hancock, and the persistencies of Grant, that we owe the restoration of the Union on any terms.

"What is there in the Pennsylvania platform? The first three clauses are devoted to the negro, as if everybody did not know that we do not approve of negro suffrage, but that at the same time we cannot help ourselves, and have to thank the obstinacy of the former slaveholders, even after defeat in arms, for the enforcement of so unwise a principle. Then we have a word in favor of reform, and another in support of a republican measure, to assist laboring men. Next, there is a denunciation of the last Congress, which is well enough, and certainly fully justified in the opinion of the entire country. Then comes a clause for the soldiers, but not a word for the war in which they fought. After that we find a paragraph about foreign matters, which means anything or nothing; and the whole winds up with a denunciation of the present revenue system.

"This is all. Not a sentence on the subject of the Alabama claims or the Cuban question, or of the tariff that wrongs the poor man to help the rich. No condemnation of the rebellion against which the soldiers fought, even though the soldiers are praised—the omission being an insult, if any reference to the subject were proper. No fitting expression in favor of economy in public expenditures; nothing, in fact, first or last, but the old negro question and general abuse of Republicans. The self-same grambling without proposing an improvement; the same refusal to understand the altered position of the whole country, which has led to defeat so frequently. The nomination of a man with nothing to recommend him but the faculty of heaping up wealth, with no record worth mentioning, and nothing about him to arouse enthusiasm but his money. Not the first sign of true loyalty nor the least evidence of devotion to the best interests of the whole country. Under such circumstances we do not expect nor wish that the Democrats should carry Pennsylvania.

"We do not wish this simply because it would be a triumph of the Vallandighams and Pendletons, and the old school that never learns and never forgets; the former slave power toadies, who imagine that slavery was a thing of beauty and a joy forever, instead of being at best but a cruel necessity of the Constitution. A triumph on such principles and with such candidates would only revive the dead men of the North and the South, the putrescent bodies which have been smothered under the loyalty of the nation; the malignant rebels, whether they register themselves as enemies of the nation in Cincinnati, Harrisburg, or New Orleans. A victory now would bring the extremists back to life and power, and with them another defeat in 1875. The Republicans are begging for admission amongst us, provided they can come in with honor; many old Democrats are anxious to return to their first love; but they will not leave their loyalty or self-respect behind. Accept certain results of the war, exhibit an understanding of the altered phase of some public matters—concede even something for harmony, and the Democracy is as sure to carry the next national elections as that the sun shall shine in summer and the snow fall in winter. Continue in the old rut, and we shall suffer fresh and more overwhelming defeats under the increasing patriotism of the people, and the daily augmentation of their natural pride in their success in the war; we shall be beaten at all points until our party falls to pieces from very rottenness!"

☞A Southern paper narrates a comical incident of "the late unpleasantness." One of Sherman's bummers met a countryman in the course of one of his excursions, and stopped him. "Come out from under that hat," exclaimed the bummer, "I see you there." The unlucky victim delivered his hat. "Now come out of those boots," said the bummer. His orders were obeyed. "Crawl out of that coat," said he; "and be quick about it." Having subsequently robbed the man of his shirt, his trowsers, and a finger-ring, the bummer was riding off, when his victim stopped him. "Look here, mister," said he, "you forgot something;" and pulling out a quid of tobacco from his mouth, he handed it to him. "You'd be ruined if you left that," he remarked.

To FRESHEN SALT FISH.—Many persons who are in the habit of freshening mackerel or other salt fish never think that there is a right and wrong way to do it. Any person who has seen the process of evaporation going on at the salt works knows that the salt falls to the bottom. Just so it is in the pan where your mackerel or white fish lies soaking; and as it lies with the skin side down, the salt will fall to the skin and there remain; when, if placed with the flesh side down, the salt falls to the bottom of the pan, and the fish comes out freshened as it should be. In the other case, it is nearly as salt as when first put in.

☞A country magistrate, being called on to marry a couple, said: "I pronounce you man and wife, and may God have mercy upon your souls. Amen."

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of enfeebling or fatal diseases, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develops into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief, and, at length, cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Tetter or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions or visible forms of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and the various Uterous affections of the muscular and nervous systems.

Syphilis or Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute Directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are Languid and Listless, Despondent, Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affecting symptomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.
